1. [REDACTED] the ZIM plant used to be an ammunition plant during the Tsarist regime. At the present time it is nominally a watch factory but is actually a secret war plant. [REDACTED] that only one of the 26 sections (tsekhs) of the plant manufactures watches, Section no. 18. The sixth and twenty-second sections manufacture instruments. The first and fifth sections are secret, and require special passes in addition to the factory pass for entrance.

[REDACTED] the nature of the activities of these shops. He stated that in November 1948 ZIM employed approximately 20,000 workers.

2. The factory area is surrounded by fences of wood and stone with barbed wire. There are ten watch towers along the fence manned by armed sentries from the MVD company assigned to the factory. The first and fifth sections are thoroughly guarded by the MVD and are fenced off from the rest of the factory by barbed wire. Gun-powder storage cells on the factory grounds are also fenced off and guarded by MVD men.
3. The factory pass is carefully examined on entry and exit in a small building which has four exits. Workers are superficially searched, and their passes are examined and retained by the factory. Before entering in the morning, the worker calls out the number of his pass and receives it from the janitor.
